About your housemate

Michele enjoys a balanced lifestyle, she loves spending time at home looking after the garden and keeping things neat and organised, but she's also happy to get out and about for local community events.

She is hoping to share her home with another woman around her own age (40s), someone who is confident, independent, and comfortable speaking up for themselves. This will help ensure a positive and respectful living arrangement for both.

Michele has a strong personality and knows what she likes, so her ideal housemate would be someone who is easy-going but also able to set their own boundaries when needed.

This home would suit a woman looking for a tidy, well-kept space with plenty of opportunity to enjoy both quiet time and local community activities.
